KEYMACRO - Keyword search where the user can define the search pattern with regular expression. KEYMACRO Screenshots: 1. Create search 2. Create Regular Expression 3. Create the Search 4. Search and Results it's good, but there's a bug in that you cannot see what you have typed in. It is also impossible to include ranges (0-4, 4-8, 8-12, etc) in the Search... no matter what you try! Problems: 1. I want to be able to create my own regex-syntax. But in it, I want to be able to give my own command that, for example, creates a special-character in the regex-language. Something like: [my own command,] 2. I want to be able to create my own default commands. A: You're not doing any encoding conversion. You're only displaying the UTF-8 content. You need to add a line to your program that converts the content to ASCII or whatever encoding you'd like. Also, what do you mean by "syntax"? You're using the built in regexp syntax, which is much simpler to use, but it isn't the full featured thing. In practice, the syntax is just you putting the things you want to match in () and (), and separating them with slashes. For example, (\d+)/(\d+) would match the phone number (\d+) against the extension (\d+). // For instance $re = "/\\w+/.[a-z]+/[a-z]+/[a-z]+/[a-z]+/[a-z]+/[a-z]+/[a-z]+/[a-z]+/[a-z]+/[a-z]+/[a-z]+"; would match any name containing the word 'Dilbert' with 'Dilbert' as the extension. EDIT: You asked about ranges. Suppose you wanted to match (in decimal) 0,8,12,24,36,48,60,72,96,144, and so on. That's 0 through 144. I don't know how to do that with your regular expression tool, but it's easy enough to do it manually: "0\\.8*\\ 1d6a3396d6

The KEYMACRO application allows you to define a search for your key words, delimiters, and special characters within a field. From this dialog, you can define custom search within all the fields you want, your original search will be reset, if you wish to keep it. Additionally, you have a list of relevant sites to "Learn more" about your keyword or pattern. Once you've learned more about your keyword or pattern, you can click on the "Learn more" link and follow it, it's your choice whether you want to subscribe to that site or not. The application uses the SERP.COM (for the keyword or pattern) API to automatically scan, download, and index a page's content based on what it is searching for. Every field from the dialog is populated with content from the downloaded page. The keystrokes are customizable, you can define what keys to press and when. All files are saved in the Documents folder of your default browser.
