2. **Levels, Curves, and Channels** Photoshop includes functions, known as plug-ins, that enable the user to enhance the appearance of images. Adobe provides free plug-ins that enable you to do things like add color or make images look more artistic. With free plug-ins you get a lot of exposure to Photoshop so that you can practice using the tool. * * * # Plug-ins are forever! You may have heard that plug-ins have a limited life span. This is not true. Most of Adobe's plug-ins will not run in the foreseeable future. Adobe develops new and revised plug-ins, but the older ones are not likely to be updated. The exception may be the older ones that are included with the software. Adobe encourages you to upgrade to the new plug-ins with better functionality when the newer plug-ins are made available. * * * However, do be aware that some of the free plug-ins have a limited life span, so if you use one that is no longer available, you will need to buy a new copy of Photoshop. On the other hand, some of the plug-ins that are part of Photoshop are available free forever. For more information on Photoshop plug-ins, see the book's introduction (see Chapter 1). 3. **Document Management** Photoshop lets you organize your files into folders, making it easy to find, edit, and maintain a large number of files. You can also sync selected folders with your computer by choosing the File⇒Automatically save option and specifying a custom naming scheme for the files.

What's New in the?

Q: Scala: How to write List if statement with pattern matching I'm trying to write an if statement that checks if a certain pattern occurs in a list of instances. My current attempt is: `val s1:String = "hello" val s2:String = "world" val s3:String = "konichiwa" val list:List[String] = List("hello", "hi", "konichiwa") //The pattern I'm looking for: s -> 'a'*3 s or s -> s //It's in a list, so the pattern should match at the end of the string if(list.map(s => s.substring(0, s.length - 1)).contains(s1) || list.map(s => s.substring(0, s.length - 1)).contains(s2) || list.map(s => s.substring(0, s.length - 1)).contains(s3))` This works, but I feel like there's a more elegant way to express this pattern. I'd like to check if any of the strings at the end of the list have a pattern of `(s -> 'a'*3 s)` or `(s -> s)`, but I can't think of a good way to express that. Any thoughts? A: I'm not sure if I completely understand your question but I think you want something like this: `val list = List(s1, s2, s3) val pattern: String => List[String] = (s: String) => s.substring(0, s.length - 1).contains('a' * 3) || s.contains('s') Pattern.matches(pattern, list.map(pattern))` If you were asking about how to implement the pattern you mentioned, then it's not very clear what you mean because there are many ways to accomplish that. One way would be:

val s1: String = "hello" val s2: String = "world" val s3: String =
"konichiwa" val list: List[String] = List("hello", "hi", "konichiwa") //
The pattern I'm looking for: s -> 'a'
