Photodex ProShow Producer 4.52.3048.exes - 004Q: vue.js how to make a file import another file? I am new to vue.js. I have file named navigation.js and it just has a simple vue object: export default { meta: { title: '~app' }, computed: { root: function () { return this.$store.state.root; } } }; And I would like to change it to: import navigation from './components/navigation.js'; export default navigation; I would like that in another.vue file I can import it as import navigation from '@components/navigation.js'; But if I do that I get an error from vue saying "Cannot find file" I think that a better way to do it is: import { navigation } from '@components/navigation.js'; But I get another error there: Module not found: Error: Can't resolve '@components/navigation.js' @ multi (webpack)-dev-server/client?

Q: At what distance does the beam from a steady state Xenon lamp reach the maximum intensity? My textbook states that the intensity of a monochromatic light ray is  $I = E^2$ . I know this is a narrow band radiant intensity. But the beam from a steady state Xenon lamp is of a broader spectrum. So if a Xenon light falls on a Lambertian reflector, how far away from the reflector must the light be for the maximum intensity to be reached? A: This is a straightforward calculation: The radiant flux from the Xenon source is given as  $\Phi = \sigma P L$  where  $\sigma$  is the solid angle subtended by the output,  $P$  the power delivered by the lamp, and  $L$  the distance from the source to the reflector, with the reflector having reflectivity  $r = 1 - p$  (with  $p$  being the reflectivity). We use the solid angle to simplify  $\sigma = \pi \frac{r^2}{L^2}$  and the power to get the radiated flux  $\Phi = \sigma P L = \pi \frac{r^2}{L^2} P L$   $\Phi$  is the radiant flux at the position  $L$  away from the Xenon lamp. The radiated intensity at this distance is  $I = \Phi / A_d = \pi \frac{r^2}{L^2} P / A_d$ , where  $A_d = \pi r^2$  is the area of the source as seen from the distance  $L$ , with  $r$
