to continue her bid for the French presidency after the ruling party held an emergency meeting to discuss plans to defeat her. The far-right leader saw her far-left rival Jean-Luc Mélenchon's support crumple over the weekend, but continued on the offensive in the final week of campaigning. She told supporters it would now be a "historic" battle between "the people's party" and "globalisation". The Republicans, the right-wing party behind Ms Le Pen, had sought to eliminate her by convincing the Socialist government to let it hold a primary election between 1 and 14 April. In France, primary elections can be held for any candidates wishing to contest a general election, but nominations must be made in advance and none of the parties in the current parliament can choose who to oppose in the second round. Image: Marine Le Pen, who wants to leave the Euro, was recently ejected from the UMP Ms Le Pen was kicked out of the United Republic Movement (MR) in January after calling for the expulsion of any party of which she did not approve. Her inclusion in the party is a major boost to her chances of reaching the second round of the French presidential election in April, even though she has little chance of winning the presidency. The MR says it will support her in the vote. She faces Benjamin Griveaux, a potential successor to current prime minister Édouard Philippe, and a string of moderate candidates in the presidential race. Dozens of demonstrations have been held against her in recent days, involving tens of thousands of supporters, and she has been booed by crowds at recent public events. She is also under investigation for hate speech after she was filmed in the same footage saying

For the impact, take a hatchet or sharp knife and strike into several objects: A fruit.Q: How to disable some when only 1 part of the document has error I want to disabled a if it is not available using jQuery. My element: var a = 3; When I run the following jQuery code the value of a is not set because the script element is empty.

$('#script').each(function() { var src =
    $.attr(this,'src'); if ( src ) {
    $(this).remove(); } });

Is there any way I can change the above jQuery code to make it work, i.e. when there is an error in the element it should stay enabled? EDIT: To explain it better: The html code has multiple elements. If one of them has an error, I want to remove all of them. If only one has an error, I want to remove that one. A: Use
