Like the fact that it is the most popular mobile app in the US and the UK, or that it is the top grossing app for the past nine months in both markets." The Amazon Echo has become the must-have gadget for any home, and the company is now launching a new version of the Alexa virtual assistant. The Amazon Echo at CES 2018 on Tuesday. The new Echo, which is designed to be the hub of a smart home, has a design that takes its concept a step further, with a centre speaker and two other speakers on the sides. It can be plugged directly into a TV or into a smart audio system, and users can add a hub compatible with Google How or Zigbee devices, to create a central hub for controlling the lights, music, heating and other devices around the house. Amazon Echo has been at the centre of many a tech demo at CES and is now heading into its seventh year in the market. In that time, we have seen this nifty little device grow in leaps and bounds. This new Echo is a great addition to Amazon's growing ecosystem. It will be available on 7 April for $179.
