So you've got a bullet in your hand, a time bomb strapped to your wrist, and all you need to do is dance. Release the bomb at the perfect moment to stop the clock from ringing or you're dead. There are two goals here: stay alive and don't ruin the day. But don't let the panic grip you either, there are tools at your disposal. Key Features: 2 game modes and 2 difficulty levels. This game can be played with a controller or joystick. Coop and online modes. Simple and straightforward control scheme. No need to aim, you control your moves with the flow of the music. Win or lose, the fun lasts until the end. Trailer: About The Developer Deep Silver announces the follow up to the award winning QWOP and Mr. Shifty. "The developers of the Guitar Hero/Rock Band series have worked closely with us to create an amazingly awesome re-imagining of the twin-stick shooter genre." Kick Back, Rock Out! It's one of those games that does a single element exceedingly well to the detriment of everything else, and that's not necessarily bad. It does it with blistering difficulty and a lightning fast pace. The game takes heavy inspiration from Don't Starve and Guitar Hero, utilizing a fluttering world of curves and loops, where you're intent on gathering materials to power up your pirate ship, and your instruments to protect yourself. In addition to the traditional twin-stick controls, Time Recoil features an extraordinary aesthetic, inspired by anime, manga and manga-inspired art. The game includes 9 brand new pirates, each with their own special moves and abilities to help you through the game. Don't be fooled by their looks though. You won't find them easy to take down. Ever since its release in 1991, the Diablo II: Lord of Destruction shareware version of Diablo I has been a beloved classic and massively addictive action/RPG that created an entire genre. From 1997 to 2000, Blizzard Entertainment developed Diablo II with the community in mind, and it took its title as one of the most popular action games around at the time. With this massive expansion, we hope to provide everything you have come to expect from a Diablo experience: the Dark Souls RPG mechanics blended with an addictive and addictive. The expansion will also include the same items, classes, items, enemies and bosses, as well as a few exclusive new items and a soundtrack. Features: 3 New Classes: Assassin, Crusader, Monk Armors: The Black Robes A Monk can use the Sublime Isk to reroll skill orbs, and the Celestial Wreath to duplicate skill orbs Elite Monsters: The Possessed Crusaders are the most elitist kind of monks. They build their skills and techniques, constantly protecting and even calling upon allies to aid them. The SkullKnight is an armoured Monk. Its job is to defeat the enemy while carrying them away. Unique Monsters: The Sorcerer: The Sorcerer is a powerful being, the only one who can obtain the Heart of a Demon. He is a Master of Life magic, and its most important of all the Surges is the Drain Life ability. Don't expect any fun things for the Devils: The first upgrade you'll do on the Devils will be the Inferno Staff. The Inferno Staff will be the first weapon that gives the Devils the ability to fire big energy balls, and use it at a friendly target or the enemy. Most of the Devil items are a reward for finishing the game on 'Master Difficulty'. Notes: * Title only seen in the game. * The version used to the game was Diablo II 1.006, same as the first official release. * The expansion was released on the 16 of July. EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO KNOW: 1) The version in the game is the original Diablo II, not the Diablo III and not the expansion. 2) The Paladin is the only class which can take the head off a monster. 3) Heroes have now lower health and damage, and monsters have higher health and damage. It's time for #DatingLife! What time is #DatingLife on now? What kind of relationships do you want to date? Would you like to get better with — or romance?! Welcome to #DatingLife. I just "google his name," and every single time I see his face, he has a different profile pic. —Miley Cyrus Miley Cyrus wants a "curly-haired, pretty artist" who "will make me laugh and love us forever." Having a photo where he looks freaked out, a little dirty, or generally unlovey is not going to do anything for your chances with him. It's a weak, artsy, 70s kind of man. —Emily Gould Emily Gould wants a guy who "makes sense," thanks to her knowledge of photosynthesis (an Internet and physics degree, plus a trio of ring fingers). She's not attracted to the guy whose face she sees every day. In fact, she's been plagued by the same guy in the background of her Facebook and Twitter pictures, except for once when, as the butt of the joke she made about her obsession with him, he posted a photo of his friend standing across a pool of vomit. —MADELEINE BEHNKEN The ex for the past nine years wants a Hot-Headed, Gorgeous Man who is definitely "100 percent dead." We've become quite the mateless pair, he's off to the side, the new homo sapiens on the scene of the new millennium. The kind of dashing post-human like Keanu in Alphaville. The kind of man who doesn't realize how to use the automatic grocery-checker. The kind of man who laughs really hard when he takes the last Kit Kat. —EMILY GOLD The best man is, according to Emily Gold, a snarky gent, a "great listener," and someone who would
