All the features that are presented in the standard version of the program are available here. Quantum effects in a three-pion continuum. A quantum field theory of pion condensation is proposed in which the pions are bound into three-pion ($K\pi\pi$) bound states. A total cross section for the production of two $K\pi\pi$ plus a photon is obtained in a model independent way by making use of chiral SU(3) symmetry. The main resonances appearing in the cross section are identified, including the recently observed $1(1300)$ and a broad $3(1270)$ state. The theoretical cross section is in good agreement with the recent measurements carried out by the MARK III collaboration, with the exception of the $1(1300)$ state that is found to be too small.
