Crimson Tide quarterback AJ McCarron was one of the key players in helping the Kentucky Wildcats to a convincing win at the National Championship. It wasn't just McCarron who made the difference though. Perhaps most importantly, Tua Tagovailoa wasn't the only quarterback who threw three touchdowns. Facing a 52-17 deficit for the third time in the National Championship game, the Kentucky Wildcats found a way to not only come back and win, but even to outscore the Alabama Crimson Tide offense. With Alabama Crimson Tide quarterback AJ McCarron nursing a knee injury, junior backup Tua Tagovailoa played a huge role in a 44-41 come from behind victory over the Kentucky Wildcats in the National Championship. The victory not only gave the Alabama Crimson Tide their fifth National Championship in nine appearances, it also assured the home team a spot in the College Football Playoff. Just prior to kickoff of the 2014 National Championship game between the Kentucky Wildcats and Alabama Crimson Tide, former Alabama Crimson Tide linebacker Nico Johnson took to Twitter and announced he was retiring from football. Johnson would go on to be selected as a finalist for the Butkus Award, given to the nation's best linebacker, after an outstanding senior season at Kentucky. This is the second national award a former Crimson Tide player has been up for. The National Championship between the Alabama Crimson Tide and the Florida State Seminoles will be played at the Mercedes-Benz Superdome in New Orleans. That is where the National Football League has held its championship game every year since 1969. But just because the New Orleans Superdome is the site of the game doesn't mean the stadium is the only location where the game is played. Between November 20, 2014 and January 2, 2015, the Boston College Eagles won seven games in the 2014 season, the most wins any team has during a single college football season. But they were in the Football Championship Subdivision (FCS) before the year began. The Illinois Fighting Illini have taken a little more than a month to complete their campaign. Having to deal with multiple injuries to quarterback Nathan Scheelhaase, wide receiver A.J. Jenkins, and even a coaching staff change along with coaching staff were just some of the things that forced them to not only start from and liquid blood components. Components frozen immediately following whole blood collection are stored without modification and used within 12 days of collection. Components frozen within 10 days of collection are stored with a 5% plasma solution and frozen without modification. Components frozen more than 10 days after collection are stored with 10% plasma and frozen without modification. Components stored in this manner undergo gradual change and are evaluated for safety and quality. If any change is observed, such as a post-transfusion thrombotic event, then the safety, hemagglutination, and plasma volume and protein properties are further investigated. By employing one or more of these processes, the FDA will determine the feasibility of extending the shelf life of blood components.
