Look for this man who has inspired folks in the Midwest for years and has come up with a book that is not only a fun read but gives a tremendous amount of spiritual value, inspirational value. Here's what the author has to say. "Nothing is too hard for Christ and he will do the impossible. He is going to transform your life, my life, your family's life, our nation's life, and will change the world. Jesus came to do this. His mission was to reveal the beauty and holiness of God's love. Jesus came to give you a life - to show you the Father's love. Life in the Father's care is abundant, effulgent, and all embracing. Christians are the apple of God's eye, and their God is a forgiving God who will forgive them of their sins and change them in a way that is like never before." - Scott Morte, Illinois Scott's book begins with an account of meeting a man who came from the Indian country named Jacob Squier. Jacob had experienced such a life-changing encounter with Jesus Christ, he gave everything up to follow God on a path of faith. Jesus chose Jacob to be a powerful prophetic messenger to the Northwest Territory. Along with others, he shared with Christians, Indians and immigrants in the area about the coming Messiah, Jesus Christ. The revival that resulted from the preaching of Jacob and others happened in a very difficult time in the history of our nation and those who resisted were doing so out of a deep hatred of Christianity. Jacob himself was arrested and taken to a guard house and eventually sentenced to death. It was at this time that Jesus told Jacob, "Go in peace, I will send the Spirit of the Lord even now." Jacob faithfully prepared himself for his execution and said, "Behold my soul is full of the Lord's spirit." He remembered Jesus' promise and was executed not knowing of that faith. With the release of the Holy Spirit, the converts of the Northwest continued to experience the conversion power of the presence of the Holy Spirit. In the midst of the revival that followed the conversion of men like Jacob was a young man by the name of Andrew Jackson. His father was a powerful man who came to know Jesus Christ and who influenced his son in the way of a godly life. Andrew later left his home and went to Indiana and became a tent-maker. One
